DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-6, drawn to a structure of a solder pad, classified in class 174, subclass 138G.
  - II. Claims 7-11, drawn to a structure of a solder joint, classified in class 228, subclass 4.1 plus.
  - III. Claims 12-19, drawn to a method of creating an assembly for a joining mean, classified in class 29, subclass 830 plus.
  - IV. Claims 20-21, drawn to a structure of a lead frame, classified in class 361, subclass 723 plus.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:
3. Inventions III and I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product as claimed could be formed by not using a solder joint but by conductive adhesive glue instead soldering.

Art Unit: 2841

4. Inventions III and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be formed by not using a spacer between the device and the printed circuit board but by a precise setting and compressing (between an electronic device and a PCB) during soldering process.

5. Inventions III and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions between the Invention III and IV are as followings:

(a) Invention III drawn to a method of soldering an electronic device on a surface of a PCB (a surface mounting process).

(b) Invention IV drawn to a structure of a lead frame, which is clearly unrelated to the process of soldering in the Invention III.

6. Inventions IV and I are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions between the Invention IV and I are as followings:

(a) Invention IV drawn to a structure of a lead frame.

(b) Invention I drawn to a structure of a solder pad.

Because the structure of the solder pad is totally independent from the structure of the lead frame, therefore both structures are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects.

7. Inventions IV and II are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions between the Invention IV and II are as followings.

(a) Invention IV drawn to a structure of a lead frame.

(b) Invention II drawn to a structure of a solder joint.

Because the structure of the solder joint is totally independent from the structure of the lead frame, therefore both structures are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects.

8. Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, invention II has separate utility such as the solder joint has a smaller cross-section at about the middle of tits height. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Art Unit: 2841

9. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

10. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
